

Presentations

Having published the coursebook in Successful presentations together with Professor Tarnopolsky, I am excited to offer and adapt this course to anyone who wants to master his/her public speaking skills for business, academic or entertainment purposes. The topics include: informative, persuasive, creative presentations, organizing ideas, using appropriate language, transitions, as well as non-verbal techniques.

By the end of the course you will be provided with a presentation guide which includes all the necessary information for you to use in planning and delivering your future presentations. It will contain personalised templates for different types of presentations related to your business and needs, transitional expressions to use at different stages of your speech.

Number of hours and the content will depend on the students' needs and level.
